

THE BUTTERFLY

It is God Who gives us the food we eat

Westerners often indulge in a tasty treat.

How grateful are we for what God provides

For the wonder of how God's Mercy abides?

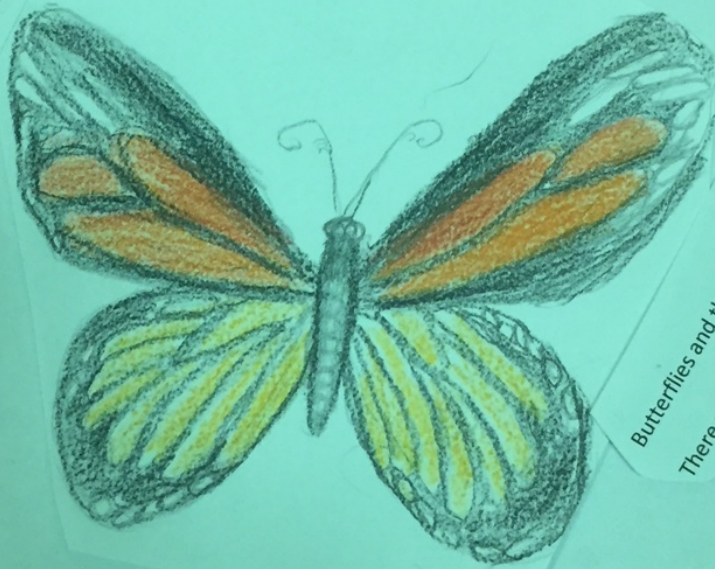

The poor and butterflies simply eat to exist.

You never see them with a shopping list.

God has provided plenty of food to go round.

How is it that such poverty can still abound?

Westerners fly about making a splash,
When they want something there's always cash.

Butterflies and the poor fly to God in their need,
There would be no poor if there was no greed.

Butterflies undergo many transitions in their transformation
To provide fresh food farmers enable seed-to transportation.

We must prevent food waste at all cost.

Why should such a precious gift be lost?
