

Paper Bags for all Vegetables

Greetings to MIRP people!!

Today (27/6) I had to attend a Bank (Bank Australia) here in Melbourne, Australia where all the wonderful employees in the whole of the Company have been invited to engage in plastic-free July! While the transaction was going through the system we all talked about how we could successfully undertake this task (I'm not an employee - am a customer!). After suggesting that the most difficult thing to do for us was how to avoid plastic in our supermarkets, we all decided we could use the paper bags that are normally used for mushrooms as our 'go-to' instead of the plastic bags and wrappings being used across the vegetable departments. Soooooo I successfully used the 'mushroom paper bags' at my next visit to the supermarket instead of any plastic. It drew a smile from the young people who know - without words - what is being modelled to help save our planet.

The only challenge is that if this "secret" gets out, it may ensure there are never enough paper bags to go around for our vegetables!!

Next step is to write to management and ask them to stock paper bags for ALL vegetables.

May God bless all our efforts!
